Audiology Paediatric Services

Information for patients, parents and carers

This leaflet is a brief guide for parents whose children are coming to the Audiology Department for the first time, following referral from the school nursing team.

Why has my child been referred to Audiology?

The school hearing screen provides information on your child's ability to detect sounds presented at a particular level. If they do not pass this screening assessment, it means that further, more complete testing is needed.

What to expect

It usually takes 30 to 45 minutes to complete the appointment.

We will ask questions related to your child's hearing and health.

We look in your child's ears with an otoscope (torch).

We assess your child's hearing by playing a variety of games depending upon their age and developmental level.

We will also carry out a quick test to see whether there is any fluid behind your child's eardrums. This involves resting a small, soft tip in the entrance to the ear canal to see how well the eardrum is moving.

The tests will not be painful for your child and you can stay with them throughout the appointment.

We will discuss the results with you at the end of the appointment and answer any questions you may have; at this stage we will also let you know if any further management is necessary.

Frequently asked questions

What if my child is unwell?

It is advisable not to bring your child to the appointment if they have had vomiting and diarrhoea in the last 24 hours; or any other infectious disease (e.g. chicken pox).

What happens if my child has wax in their ears?

Ear wax is produced inside the ears to keep them clean and free of germs. A build-up of wax is a common problem that can be treated with eardrops from a pharmacy. Once we have looked in your child's ears we can advise accordingly.
